Let us Pray:
O Living God, you are author of our true beginning and perfecter of our every ending, and you hold us in your redeeming care all the days in between. It astonishes us that you think more highly of us than we think of ourselves for you see us not only as we are but also as you intend us to become. You paid a great price in Christ Jesus that we might be forgiven of our sins and grow to the full measure of the stature of Christ. You offer us life that is far more abundant than we can think or imagine. So, this day, in the midst of summer and its heat, we whole-heartedly invite you to work in us to accomplish all that you desire. We ask you to help us finish writing the story of our lives, so that when we reach our own endings, they will be new beginnings perfectly pleasing to you. In Jesus name we pray. Amen.
